

Remember to Tap In

We've recently updated how campus cards work for your safety and security, so you'll have to tap your card on one of the square readers. All you need to do is hold your card on a square networked reader, which are normally near the building entrances, as demonstrated below.

This is to keep your access to buildings and classrooms updated, just in case anything has changed while you've been away.

If you do have any issues accessing buildings, just try repeating this process.
